GAME DESCRIPTION

Bubble Up is a single player redemption game. Each play station has a button that allows the player to control airflow in a tube at the station. There is a LED target zone on either side of the vertical tube. At the beginning of game play, a 4" capsule or ball is released into the vertical tube. The player utilizes a button located in front of the player station to adjust the airflow in order to keep the capsule within a vertically moving LED target zone. If the player allows any part of the capsule to go past the edge of the target zone, the game is over. However, if the player keeps the capsule within the target zone for the entire allotted time, the player wins and is awarded a prize.
